The screenshot displays the ANSYS Additive 2019 software interface. On the left, a Microsoft Excel spreadsheet is open, showing input and output values for a simulation. The input values include Length (0.75 in), Width (0.35 in), Height (20 in), and Pressure (220 psi). The output values include Max Bending Distance (Calculating in) and a list of frequencies (Mode 1 to Mode 10) in Hz. The main window shows a project schematic with three columns: Geometry, Static Structural, and Modal. The schematic includes steps for Geometry, Engineering Data, Model, Setup, Solution, Results, and Parameters. On the right, a table titled "Outline of All Parameters" lists various parameters and their values.
